2011 ANNUAL REPORT

Patricia W. Nobili, President & CEO and David Dunstan, Chairman of the Board

DEAR FRIENDS,

What does the word “achievement” mean to you? We are fortunate to witness outcomes that demonstrate different meanings of this word every day. We see children’s smiles filled with pride when after tremendous efforts, perseverance and sheer hard work, they make progress toward their unique goals. And we see the joy their families express when their child surpasses their expectations. Here are just a few examples of the array of achievements that are celebrated at the Achievement Centers:

- ◆ Sarah, who has cerebral palsy and used a wheelchair, learned to stand and walk with a walker at the age of 12 through our Intensive Therapy Clinic. Imagine the independence, freedom and confidence this achievement gave her. Imagine her parents’ optimism for Sarah’s future care needs.
- ◆ Briana and Addie, eight and nine years old, are so proud that they learned to swim in our Adapted Aquatics program. Briana was born without legs and Addie has brittle bone disease. They are now best buddies.
- ◆ Mattie is three years old and has Down syndrome. Her parents have benefited from counseling and information from our Family Support team since Mattie was born. They were able to work through their initial pain and fears to find hope, while learning concrete tools to help Mattie achieve many developmental milestones in those first critical years of development. Early intervention is so important.
- ◆ Julie and Mark were able to sleep through the night for the first time in nine years, when their son, who was born with a severe disability, spent a week in our residential camping program at Camp Cheerful, where he enjoyed swimming, horseback riding, camp fires, and many more fun activities adapted to his special needs, alongside other kids his age.

These achievements, and so many others, were made possible due to many people. First and foremost the children and families who work tirelessly to achieve their goals; to the many therapists, social workers, teachers, and staff who have committed themselves to helping improve the lives of children with disabilities; and to all of you who have given so generously of your time and resources for the benefit of others. The obstacles the children and families face often occur on a daily basis, as well as a “forever” basis. Therefore, the Achievement Centers for children must be here for families on a daily and forever basis. Your support and caring help make that possible. So, we celebrate with all of you and thank you for being part of so many achievements. May we always remember . . .

“Many see what is . . . But we must see what can be” —Albert Einstein

Bella

ACHIEVEMENT IS . . . learning, with caring and competent therapists, to work through difficulties and fears, to learn each new word, sentence, and question; each new jump and step.

therapy caring family social skills progress confidence learning goals quality assurance

Bella, born with Down syndrome, was referred to the Achievement Centers by her pediatrician when she was three years old. At that time she was barely able to walk two steps with her weak, shaky legs. Now five years old, she proudly prances across a balance beam and jumps off blocks. Bella has received speech therapy and physical therapy at the Achievement Centers, and her mother related that, “her growth in both areas has been nothing short of spectacular.” Her speech therapist helped her communicate her needs and feelings, giving her confidence and allowing her personality to blossom. Her physical therapist, Trish, Mrs. Novario says, “is able to get her to work through her stubbornness and past her fears to achieve amazing progress. Being able to climb the ladder to the slide and play with the fun riding toys with her friends enhances her social skills and makes her part of the group.” She also has a family who will be there for her through it all. “Bella teaches us more than we could ever teach her. We’re just along for the ride and we can’t wait to see where it takes us.”

During 2010–2011, there were 2,376 sessions given in physical therapy, 4,165 sessions given in speech therapy, and 1,015 sessions given in occupational therapy. A total of 321 individual clients were served in all therapy programs, with 55% under the age of six.

QUALITY ASSURANCE

The Achievement Centers utilizes the WeeFIM II® nationally recognized system to document functional assessments for therapies in three different areas—cognitive, mobility, and self care. During 2010–2011, 80% of the children showed progress over a six-month period. Bella herself showed a 24% increase in her functional development as measured by the WeeFIM II® system. Parents can be assured that their child’s goals, progress and outcomes are being measured and documented using professional standards.

Ebony and Paul Aiken had never heard the word “autism” before their oldest son, Yusuf, was diagnosed. All they knew was that their five-year-old son did not speak, became frustrated easily and had difficulty following directions. They felt lost and afraid for their son. They read everything they could and became desperate to find him the help they knew he needed. Yusuf and his family began their learning journey at the Achievement Centers. He is now a fourth grader in our Westlake autism classroom, where his teachers are autism specialists and he is taught in an environment designed to meet his unique needs. He also has fun at Camp Cheerful, receives occupational therapy and speech therapy, and especially enjoys his adapted aquatics classes. In addition, a parent educator visits their home to help Yusuf’s parents provide the consistency between home and school that is so important, especially to a child with autism. Ebony related that “after working with our children—and some days are truly rough—these angels come to our home and provide us ways to continue the learning process at home.”

Ebony and Paul are now proud to say that “Yusuf calls us ‘momma’ and ‘daddy,’ he plays with his peers appropriately, he communicates his wants and needs properly, he writes his name and he counts.” She continued, “There are no words to express the dedication and compassion which is shown by the Achievement Centers.”

“The professionals at the Achievement Centers truly believe that our children can learn and achieve, and our children feel this belief in them from the staff.”

The Achievement Centers offers expertise and experience with autism in all of our programs, serving nearly 600 children with autism through our individualized education, including preschool through grade five classrooms; therapy services integrated into classrooms; recreation, including specialized camp sessions and adapted football; and family support services, including family support groups, parent educators and social workers for children diagnosed on the autism spectrum and their families. In addition, we offer trainings for professionals and provide consultation services for schools.

ACHIEVEMENT IS . . . being able to speak my own words. I can ask for what I need and want, play with friends, and enjoy school. I smile a lot now.

ACHIEVEMENT MEANS . . . seeing our son learn. This gives us hope for the future.
—Ebony and Paul Aiken, parents of Yusuf

Claire List

ACHIEVEMENT MEANS . . .

“being actively engaged with the Therapeutic Horseback Riding students as they achieve skills, and gain courage and confidence that they never imagined possible, all with the help of these beautiful, gentle animals.”

As a child, and much to her mother’s dismay, Claire gave up her ballet slippers and dance recitals for barn boots and horseback riding lessons. After many years of dedication to her career and a hiatus in her riding, she looked forward to her retirement possibilities. She returned to her childhood love of horses, and found an even greater love in teaching children and adults at the Therapeutic Riding program at the Achievement Centers’ Camp Cheerful. When Claire joined the Therapeutic Riding program as a volunteer in 2004, she could feel the energy and the passion in the staff that encouraged her to achieve her certification as an instructor. She now instructs classes and trains other volunteers.

Claire has seen the benefits firsthand of therapeutic horseback riding for children with disabilities, such as building core strength and balance in the riders, which may be used to compliment other therapy treatments. For children with autism, there is a special sensory trail to experience new sights and sounds.

“I’ve actually cried as we’ve lifted children and ventilators on top of horses and to see the look and smiles on those kids’ faces. Oh my gosh—it’s amazing.”

Last year, there were 3,913 Therapeutic Horseback riding lessons given thanks to the dedication of over 400 volunteers and instructors who provided over 10,000 hours last year.

Achievement Centers for Children’s Camp Cheerful is certified as a Premier Accredited Center Program by The Professional Association of Therapeutic Horsemanship International (PATH Intl.), formally known as the North American Riding for the Handicapped Association (NARHA). Camp Cheerful’s Therapeutic Riding (TR) program is one of only twelve such accredited centers in Ohio that provides quality professional equine-assisted activities while meeting established industry standards. All of Camp Cheerful’s TR instructors are certified and registered by PATH.

GE describes its culture as “a place for creating and bringing big ideas to life.” For many years GE has been there for the Achievement Centers through the company’s generous financial support, Board involvement, matching gift program and their community volunteer projects.

As part of their 2011 United Way “Day of Caring” this year, over 600 employee volunteers completed more than 35 capital improvement projects valued at $315,000 at our Camp Cheerful. “GE employees are extremely passionate about making a difference in the community,” said

“The Achievement Centers for Children is such a deserving organization and it is great to be able to make so many improvements for the children at Camp Cheerful.”

—Maryrose Sylvester, President & CEO, GE Lighting

Maryrose Sylvester, President & CEO, GE Lighting. Projects ranged from major kitchen updates, to building a new picnic pavilion, and painting, painting and more painting—inside cabins, outside cabins, in the swimming pool, and outside the Great Hall—even the totem pole got a new coat. An engineering team designed and built custom-wheeled platforms for the heavy hospital beds and bunk beds to allow them to roll easily through the widened cabin doors. Everything was completed to the delight of the first campers arriving for the summer.

It is through the involvement and generosity of corporate donors, such as GE, that we too are able to think of ourselves as “a place for creating and bringing big ideas to life” through our mission. We constantly look for opportunities to allow children to develop their abilities and experience life’s activities as their typical peers. In our sports program developed this year, children and young adults with disabilities are now playing wheelchair basketball, adapted football, baseball, and will soon be swimming competitively. In addition, our innovative Intensive Therapy Clinic has seen remarkable outcomes in individuals with neuromuscular conditions such as Cerebral Palsy, whose “big ideas” are to walk without crutches or to be strong enough to transfer from a wheelchair to a walker.

ACHIEVEMENT IS
 . . . seeing firsthand how GE’s resources, together with skills and a spirit of innovation, touch the lives of children with disabilities and their families right here in the community where we live and work.

Tim and Megan Milanich

THANKS to thoughtful donors and supporters such as Tim and Megan, we at Achievement Centers for Children are able to work with children with disabilities and their families and provide most services regardless of a family's ability to pay. We are privileged to have caring and expert staff members that enable and empower children with disabilities to learn, play and develop their abilities right here in Northeast Ohio. Out of every dollar donated, $.83 goes directly for the benefit of our clients and to further our mission.

ACHIEVEMENT IS . . . seeing how much people want to help. We're humbled. Helping one more child is what it's all about.

Tim and Megan Milanich found the mission of the Achievement Centers personally resonated with them when they were first introduced to the agency through our Friends Group, a dedicated group of young professionals. Their special connection is through their son, Jack, who attended school in our autism classroom. They understand the continuous emotional and financial challenges facing families as they try to find the best opportunities to develop the unique abilities of their children. Each year, the Milanich family receives support from their friends, family and colleagues for their race team "Team Jack" for "A Most Excellent Race" to benefit Camp Cheerful. They feel fortunate and are touched by the personal encouragement they receive from their employers and co-workers at Case Western Reserve University and the Brokaw advertising agency. Tim and Megan feel that what really makes a difference at the Achievement Centers is the emotional support and perspective they continue to receive. "They make us feel there's a light at the end of the tunnel. It may dim a little bit and it may get a little brighter, but it's there—you just have to keep moving ahead even though at times you think your whole world is falling apart around you."

Tim relates, "It was important for us to support something that will help children and families today. If you support the Achievement Centers, it's local. It's somewhere that you can see the difference you make with your own eyes."

our mission is to enable and empower children with disabilities and their families to grow, learn, play and prepare for lifelong achievement in society.

Founded in 1940 as the Society for Crippled Children, we now serve children with a broad range of disabilities and special needs including autism, cerebral palsy, spina bifida, and other physical, cognitive and emotional challenges. Our unique, comprehensive service model weaves together education and autism services; therapy services; recreation and sports programs; and family support services to meet the needs of the entire family. The agency serves children from birth through young adulthood, with a special focus on children from birth through age five.

EDUCATION AND AUTISM SERVICES include the Technical Assistance Program, consultation services for childcare programs to serve children with disabilities; a Child Development Center, and Autism Classrooms for preschool and Kindergarten through fifth grade for children diagnosed with autism spectrum disorder; trainings for professionals and consultation services for schools through Achieve Consulting.

THERAPY SERVICES include physical, occupational and speech and language therapies. We also offer an Intensive Therapy Clinic, which offers a different approach to therapy.

RECREATION AND SPORTS PROGRAMS include day and residential camping experiences as well as a competitive sports program. Camp Cheerful in Strongsville provides traditional camp activities including arts and crafts, hiking, swimming, canoeing, therapeutic horseback riding, adapted aquatics and a fully-accessible high ropes challenge course. Our sports program includes Junior Wheelchair Cavaliers Basketball and the Cleveland Browns Adapted Football League, with more sports to come.

FAMILY SUPPORT SERVICES include the coordination of services, counseling, support groups, advocacy and family education for children with disabilities and their families. It also includes Early Intervention Home Based Programs which deliver home-based services to children with special needs (ages birth to three years) and their families. The Early Childhood Mental Health Program is designed for children who are experiencing social, emotional or behavioral challenges.

Nearly 4,000 children from throughout Greater Cleveland and beyond received services last year at our three locations—Highland Hills, Westlake, and Camp Cheerful in Strongsville, as well as in schools and families' homes.

Highlights

STRATEGIC PLANNING

In these challenging economic times, it is more important than ever for organizations to have a solid strategic plan. This was a major focus during the last eight months, as we planned for and expect continual improvement, innovative thinking, well managed growth and excellence in all areas of the agency. We must insure that we remain a vibrant resource for today's children with disabilities, as well as for children who are born with disabilities tomorrow.

CARF (Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities)

We were awarded the highest ratings by CARF for our mental health programs, and earned praise for our executive leadership; diverse and stable Board of Directors; broad community support; caring, enthusiastic and motivated staff; assessment process and support from parents of clients. They specifically recognized our broad array of services as "exemplary," a level of award that is only given to a select few organizations throughout the United States. CARF is a national, independent, nonprofit accreditor of health and human service agencies.

UNITED WAY OF GREATER CLEVELAND

Achievement Centers was given an overall rating of "Exceeds Expectations" in United Way's Organizational Assessment. This is their highest rating and one achieved by only a small number of their funded organizations.
