AT Fourteen months old, Ivette's son Devin displayed all the classic signs of a child with autism. He had sensory issues, speech and developmental delays and engaged in repetitive self-stimulating behaviors. For Ivette and her husband Neil, realizing that their only child wasn't developing normally was heartbreaking.

While it took a while for some family members to accept that Devin had significant challenges, Ivette knew how important early intervention was to her son's future development. "We were running out of time" she said. After an extensive search, Ivette was introduced to the Achievement Centers for Children through a Help Me Grow Service Coordinator and Devin began receiving speech and occupational therapy shortly thereafter at age three.

Devin's Path to Success

However, another year went by before Devin finally received a formal diagnosis of moderate autism at the age of four. And even though Devin was working with the Achievement Centers' therapists, his mother said that she wasn't prepared for the overwhelming feeling and confusion that came with her son's diagnosis. "All of a sudden, there was all this paperwork and a ton of decisions to make. I felt like there were twenty different highways to take, but I had no idea which direction to go to get to my destination."

Fortunately, Ivette soon found out that she wasn't alone on this journey. An Achievement Centers' Family Support social worker, Cindy Dooley, was ready to step in and help Devin and his family find their path to success. "I call Cindy my GPS" said Ivette. "She told me about this program called ACCent and said that she would be there in whatever way I needed her. "

ACCent, which stands for Advocacy, Community resources, Coordination of services, Emotional support, Needs assessment and Teamwork, is a free service offered to parents of children currently receiving therapy services through the Achievement Centers. Designed to help families cope with the emotional aspect of caring for a child with special needs, ACCent staff are trained to help parents deal with difficult family issues, discover little-known resources and also educate them on how to maximize therapeutic benefits at home and in the community.

Like a lot of parents, Cindy said that Ivette didn't initially think that she needed ACCent's services. "I told her

I didn't have any issues!" Ivette said. But as their relationship developed, she started confiding in Cindy more and realized that the ACCent program was an integral part of her son's treatment plan. "The Achievement Centers' staff functions as a family" she said. "They're so interconnected and dedicated to reaching our common goal: making sure that Devin will grow up to be a person that can function in society."

Ivette feels more competent as a parent and she adds that "hearing someone say 'Let's make sense of this together' made me realize that I had someone taking care of not just Devin, but me too."

Ivette is ecstatic about the changes she's seen in Devin since he began coming to the Achievement Centers. "He's more articulate and loves to tell me about his day. And he has a wonderful imagination that didn't use to be there!"

Ivette says that she knows the Achievement Centers' staff are professionals, but she also considers them friends. Looking back at how far her son has come, she now has a sense of peace and confidence she didn't have before. "Devin is like a flower that didn't open when all the other little flowers did. At first, it was hard for me to accept, but now I realize that he's just as beautiful as all the rest of the flowers. He's just blooming at his own pace."

SEASONS GREETINGS!

The upcoming year of 2010 marks the Achievement Centers for Children's 70th Anniversary! Over the past seven decades, we have blossomed into a thriving organization that serves as a place of hope and achievement for thousands of children with disabilities and their families every year.

Our mission has been a constant, but the services have evolved in response to the needs of the community and of children with disabilities and their families. Over the years, some of the specific disabilities have changed. But the Achievement Centers' strong commitment to children with disabilities and their families has been unwavering. Our dedicated staff, board members and volunteers deliver on this commitment every day by working together to provide the highest quality services to our families. And of course, I must acknowledge the individual donors, corporations and foundations that play an integral part in OUR success. Without YOUR commitment to us and generous financial support, many of the children we serve would not have access to services that are such a vital component of THEIR success.

Recently at our Sparkle, Shimmer & Shine event, our largest fundraiser of the year, the Achievement Centers for Children was overwhelmed with the depth of caring and generosity that came from our community, especially given this economy. Our community, both individuals and corporations, exceeded our goal, contributing a remarkable $437,000 very needed dollars to our programs for children with disabilities and their families. A young man who has received numerous services at the Achievement Centers since he was six months old and who has significant mobility impairments, and his mom, were guests at our event. They said in a note afterwards—"Steve and I were as proud of our community as we have ever been. Football, baseball and basketball players are often portrayed as being heroes and role models. But the men and women who were at Sparkle on Saturday, and all your supporters, are the true unsung heroes to families like ours and to young people like Steve." . . . It needs to be added that Steve will be graduating from college, summa cum laude, and he and his family credit the services he received at the Achievement Centers for Children as a big factor in his successes.

Yes, it was truly an amazing evening because of our amazing community. So as we look forward to the next 70 years, the Achievement Centers for Children is confident that we will continue to evolve and grow because of support such as this. We have thousands and thousands of success stories throughout the past 70 years. We also know that we have very hard work ahead of us in order to continue to create thousands of new success stories. So we express our heartfelt gratitude for those who paved the way for us in our past, for those who continue to support us in our present, as well as for those future leaders and supporters who will carry on our mission for generations to come.

"A man (woman) never stood so tall as when he (she) stooped to help a child."

Warmest regards,

SUPPORTED EMPLOYMENT

The Achievement Centers' Camp Cheerful relies on many hands to keep the Therapeutic Horseback Riding program running smoothly. But for several years, two very special helpers, twins Laura and Peggy, have given our horses, riders, staff and volunteers an extra boost. The twins, who have developmental disabilities and are now in their late 20's, began their work at Camp Cheerful as volunteers with their mother Daphne. They have always enjoyed coming to camp to help with the horses, and over time, they transitioned into becoming employees, as part of the Cuyahoga County Board of Developmental Disabilities' Day Array employment program for adults with disabilities.

They perform a wide range of tasks at the barn, including feeding and grooming the horses, and cleaning the stalls and barn areas, which is a big help to the therapy riding staff. However, they also give the horses a level of attention that they might not otherwise receive. Tim Fox, Director of Recreation Services said that "this is really a win-win situation for everyone. Laura and Peggy receive training and services which are consistent with our mission, while the staff and horses benefit from having the extra help around the barn."

Through their work in the barn with the horses, Peggy and Laura are not only improving functionally, but they are learning skills that can carry over into their everyday lives and help them become more independent. Best of all, they're making friends. Their supervisor, Michelle Bailey, says that they bring sunshine to the barn, and that the volunteers also benefit from having the girls around. "They just bring out the happy in people!"

DO YOU HAVE A SECRET?

As the financial demands of providing services for children with disabilities and their families continue to grow, we encourage our friends and supporters to consider making a lasting gift to ensure the long term financial security of the Achievement Centers for Children. An estate gift will help make sure that the important work of providing critical services to the children and families we serve will continue for years to come.

Have you made plans for a gift to the Achievement Centers in your will, trust or other document, but have not yet notified us? If so, please share your secret! We encourage you to let us know of this arrangement so that we may count you as an Oak Tree Society member so that your gift can be acknowledged and we can thank you in a way that is meaningful and appropriate for you. We are available to answer your questions about Oak Tree Society membership or to consult with your financial advisors to assist in making your legacy gift to support the Achievement Centers.

You can become a member of the Oak Tree Society just by including us in your will or estate plan. Adding a codicil to your will naming the Achievement Centers for Children as the beneficiary of a specific dollar amount or as a residual beneficiary is one of the simplest ways to make a planned gift.

If you have questions, need additional information or would like to discuss your gift intentions, please call Deborah Osgood at 216-292-9700 or contact her via e-mail at Deborah.Osgood@achievementctrs.org. We look forward to hearing from you!

- Make an in-kind donation of books, camp equipment, arts & crafts supplies or items from our wish list that can be distributed to families or classrooms. Check out DonorsChoose.org to see what's on our wish list.

Featuring 10k and 5k competitive races and a family fun walk, A Most Excellent Race brought over 800 people together for a great cause. The day was kicked off by the Camp Cheerful Classic, a 100-yard dash featuring campers from Camp Cheerful. ## CAMP CHEERFUL HORSE EXPO & BOOT GIVEAWAY

On October 1, the Achievement Centers' Camp Cheerful hosted the third Annual Horse Expo & Boot Giveaway. ## Volunteer Groups Keep Camp Cheerful a Cheery Place!

The Achievement Centers' Camp Cheerful has been a favorite destination for corporate and civic groups looking to give back to the community. Throughout the year, we welcome scores of volunteers for days of service, which provide the Camp Cheerful staff with help to prepare camp for the summer and restore its beauty at the end of camp season. This past spring, among other groups, employees from Intuit Real Estate Solutions and Turner Construction brought much-needed cheer to camp.

Intuit brought out seventeen staff members who dug right in and assisted with cleaning, weeding, cutting grass and they even lent a hand to our Therapeutic Riding classes. Turner Construction brought their building expertise to camp as they repaired storage sheds and replaced doors on our cabins.

Through the hard work of volunteer groups such as Intuit, Turner Construction and many others, the Achievement Centers is able to cut costs on labor expenses around the agency. Thanks for lending a helping hand!
